Evaluation of student's activities performed in a particular academic year:

Yee Yee Sein more or less fulfilled her plan, with our main focus being on completing her dissertation. She did not teach the planned subject, but that was because this course was not open. On the other hand, she made up for this activity by participating in another lesson. Regarding publications, we decided not to publish at the conference. The student has published one journal paper, another journal paper is in the second round of review, and another journal paper is in the process of completion.

The student plans to hand in her final dissertation in September 2024.

I recommend that the student continue her studies.
